When residents begin moving into The Shoreland this September, they will have the fastest Internet service in any rental apartment in Chicago.

MAC Property Management is nearly complete with the rehabilitation on the building, which operated as a luxury hotel for most of its life, and later as a dormitory. The Shoreland will be the first rental apartment in the city to offer gigabit speed Internet service as an amenity to the building. Gigabit speed is roughly 100 times the speed of regular broadband service, MAC said in a written statement.
